"Welcome To The Farm!" One of Indiana's State Parks has a 1920s farm on it with animals, a barn, blacksmith shop, corn crib, chicken coops, and farmhouses that serve as museums. The Farm at Prophetstown is a glimpse of farming life in the early 1900s. You can visit daily starting this Spring, and they have events and programs throughout the year too.

Admission is free with entry to Prophetstown State Park. The Gibson Farmhouse sells seasonal produce and fresh meat and eggs. They also have occasional ticketed Farm-To-Table Dinners!

My House by Charlene Adams

"You can drag in every wooden chair from the other room if it makes you comfortable and convinces you to stay awhile. And this one thought. I can't get it out of my mind. I wonder if God feels the same about His house."

#GivingTuesdayNow is a new global day of giving and unity that will take place on May 5, 2020 – as a response to the unprecedented need caused by COVID-19.

Whether Adams Voice is singing the National Anthem at a stadium or singing hymns and original music at a church, national conference, on radio or television, or a Gaither Homecoming, bringing glory to God is the focus. Due to canceled events, Adams Voice ministry will see a decrease in revenues and donations in 2020. To meet the budget needs for basic operations, we are hoping that you consider a gift for #GivingTuesdayNow on May 5th. Anything you donate, whether $5 or $500 is greatly appreciated!

Stay safe during these difficult times!

Hey, hey it's Evansville! 📍

I had a busy and delightful time canvassing the city last week! After interviewing with 14 NEWS in the morning and WNIN, I signed copies of '100 Things To Do In Indiana Before You Die' at Your Brother's Bookstore.

I explored museums like Evansville African American Museum and Evansville Museum of Arts, History & Science, and took selfies in Self.e Alley. 📸

As far as food, let me tell ya 🍔... COMFORT by the Cross-Eyed Cricket is amazing for brunch! And I couldn't pass up eating at BRU Burger Bar Evansville in a restored Greyhound station.

While I didn't see any ghosts at Willard Library, Indiana's oldest library, amazing lattes were found at River City Coffee + Goods. ☕️ Coffee + adorable cats can be found across the street at River Kitty Cat Cafe.

Thank you Visit Evansville for showing me your city's gems and history. I have much more to explore when I return! ❤️
